Because the site of the beautiful campus of University High School, covered by history and legend in layers of culture, is one of the most storied spots in Southern California, the Chieftain turns back to the days of the Indians, the Padres, the Gringos and the Westerners to re-create the romance of yesterday—when today was tomorrow.

University High School 1925

In September of 1924 the doors of Harding High School were opened to 600 junior and senior high-school students and 30 teachers. The 23-acre hillside campus was bare of trees, lawns and shrubs; but the principal, Mr. Angus Cavanagh, assisted by competent advisers, including Mr. Walter Armacost, former mayor of Sawtelle, immediately started planning the landscaping now noted for its beauty. In 1929 when Harding became a training school for U.C.L.A., its name was changed to University High School.

Sparked by their capable leaders, Gordon Treharne and Gary Childress, the eLAYens of Winter '53 sped through a fast year of work, fun and festivities under the able guidance of Miss Thelma Duncan and Mr. Melzar Lindsey.

In a setting of sparkling lights of a gay city at night, these seniors dazzled their audience with their scintillating "Night on the Town." Other highlights that will find space in their memory books are the presentation of their fire engine red sweaters, their beautiful prom and the grand finale itself—the Commencement.

Jamaican Class Song

Tune: "Get Happy"

Come on Jamaicans, let's be happy
Although we're leaving Uni Hi,
Come on Jamaicans, let's be happy
Though time has come to say goodbye.

Come on Jamaicans, put on your sunshine,
It soon will wipe all your blues away,
Although we've had loads of fun at Uni,
We're waitin' for our promised day.

Our class soon will be leaving,
Our three years are now through,
The tom-toms of Jamaica,
Will sound mem'ries of you.

Come on Jamaicans, sing Halleluiah,
Our yellow sweaters will surely be,
Just one remembrance for you at Uni,
About the summer class of '53.

The Jamaicans' exotic tropicana Color Day, the long-anticipated prom and the thrilling day of the graduation concluded a series of activities which will remain as indelible as the bright Jamaican yellow.

Good-bye to the reservation

Jungle Drums Herald

Jamaican Tropicanza

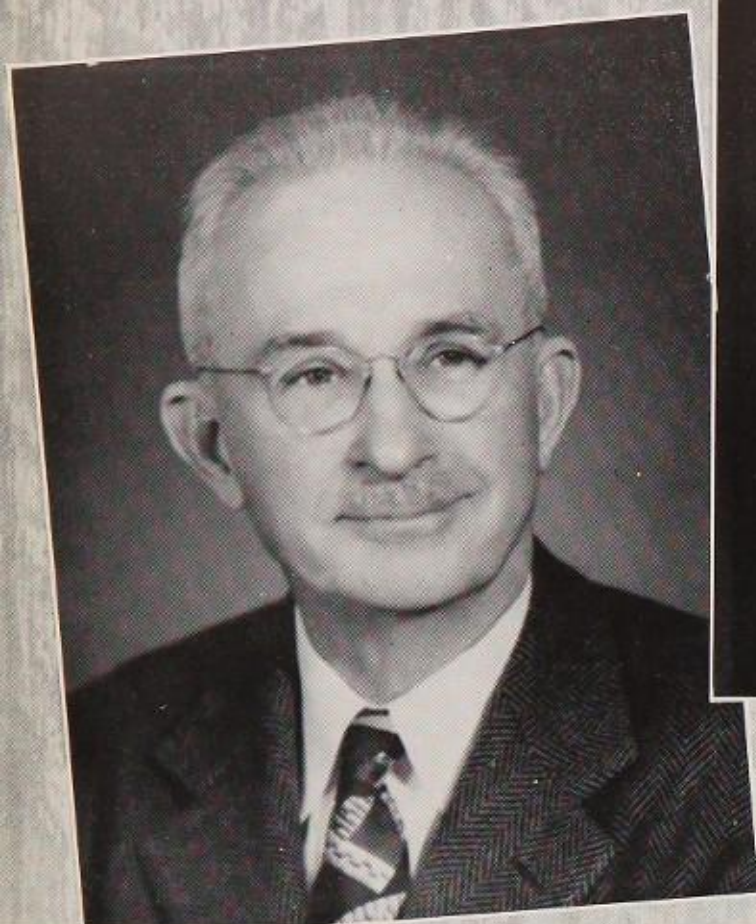

The Padres, guiding their flocks with kindness and intelligence, set them upon a constructive course for better living. Legend has it that Father Junipero Serra, camping at this reservation on one of his tours of the missions, one day cupped the glistening waters of the springs in his hands and said, "Saint Monica, these are the tears that you shed for your son Augustine," and thus was Santa Monica named.

When in 1833 the Mexican government confiscated the mission properties and the great ranchos emerged, the Indian camp became part of the vast Sepulveda rancho—the scene of lively cattle round-ups, whirling fandangos, and the soft strumming of guitars, as the Spanish Dons brought with them music and dancing, hospitality and gracious living.

Working for mental, spiritual and physical enrichment, both groups seek to create, maintain and extend throughout the community and school higher standards of Christian living.

The Tri-Y gives services to many groups, including school, hospitals, Red Cross; and besides participating in sports activities, it sponsors the Silver Ball, the carnival-dance and the Tri-Y banquet. The two main activities of the Hi-Y are the raising of money for the Y building with its carnival-dance and the filling of baskets for the needy.

FATHER OF THE BRIDE

The Drama class presented as their fall production the heart-warming comedy, "Father of the Bride." Under the stimulating direction of Mrs. Mary Jean Sutcliffe, assisted by student-director Sally Post, the two casts gave lively and convincing performances which were enthusiastically received by the audiences.

The spirit of the play was enhanced by the home-like stage sets made and designed by the stage arts students under the guidance of Mrs. Dorothy Felton and by the orchestral music directed by Mr. Salvatore Spano.

A Play in the Making

The newly chosen members of the cast of the spring operetta, Gilbert and Sullivan's Ruddigore, or the Witch's Curse, are being introduced to their roles in this humorous musical, which deals with love triumphing over a witch's curse.

While Mrs. Provan rehearses the cast, Mrs. Felton tests the lights and prepares the stage.

In just a minute we'll see that Warrior band, complete with feathers, step smartly down the field.

Pat Haglund perfects her technique

Nothing is complete without music, for in its many moods it creates that added something which lends spirit, gaiety or solemnity to an occasion. Throughout the year, as usual, the glee clubs, the A Cappella choir, the band and orchestra brought pleasure to the music-loving student body many, many times.

To see the band marching down the football field to the rhythmic beat of the drums and the blare of trumpets, with the drill team following in precision-perfect patterns is a thrill to all the excited spectators.

Not only did the glee clubs, the choir and the orchestra give many beautiful musical entertainments, but they assisted at most of the important events such as plays, assemblies, Color Day, and graduation; and the band won the highest honor rating at the Los Angeles City Music Festival.

The Fall and Spring Warrior staffs in action

Warrior editors Renee Laufer, Ann Snyder, Sally Post

Spurred by the first-class rating of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association which the Warrior received last year, Mr. Jamison and his staff have changed, chopped, and added in their endeavor to make their paper even better than before.

To arouse interest in potential writers, the cubs have been encouraged to write active copy and the exchange department has been expanded to include every state and twelve foreign countries.

The spring staff consisted of George Phelps and Penny Smith, first page; Marty Cooper and Richard Wheaton, editorials; Jean Kussy and Louis Krichesky, organization news and features; Jerry Measer, sports. Judy James was managing editor; while Kathy Misake and Ruth Streip were efficient typists. Ann Scudder and Pat Haglund, fall and spring commissioners of publications, coordinated the leadership class and school paper.

The Chieftain

That the Chieftain was published by the students of Unihi is true because many, many different groups assisted in its production. Mr. Joe Hesslein and his photographers took all the pictures except the individual senior photographs; Miss Billie Addison and her office staff gave valuable service in the sales and advertising departments, as did Anne Scudder and Pat Haglund, commissioners of publication. Mr. Thomas printed receipt books and mailing envelopes, and Mr. Thomas Henly was the source of much of the material used for the history of the school.

The art work was the product of the Chieftain art classes under the supervision of Miss McCartney and her student-teachers, every member of the two classes contributing something to the finished product.

The layouts were made by S. Biswell, J. Brown, D. Garrett, A. Tamiya, M. Brayton, C. Hatton, B. Piersol, D. Spencer. The illustrations were the endeavor of B. Abe, M. Abrams, D. Barwelle, M. Garfield, P. Hannah, B. Jones, L. Littenberg, A. Musgrove, S. Stergis, D. Stermer. Credit for the cover goes to D. Eichmeyer, D. Goodman, J. Newfield, R. Robles, M. Scully, and J. Meents.

The production staff, of which Phyllis Hibbard was the editor, was responsible for the planning, the compiling and writing of the story of Unihi; while Betsy Koogle took charge of the advertising.

Uni Goes to College

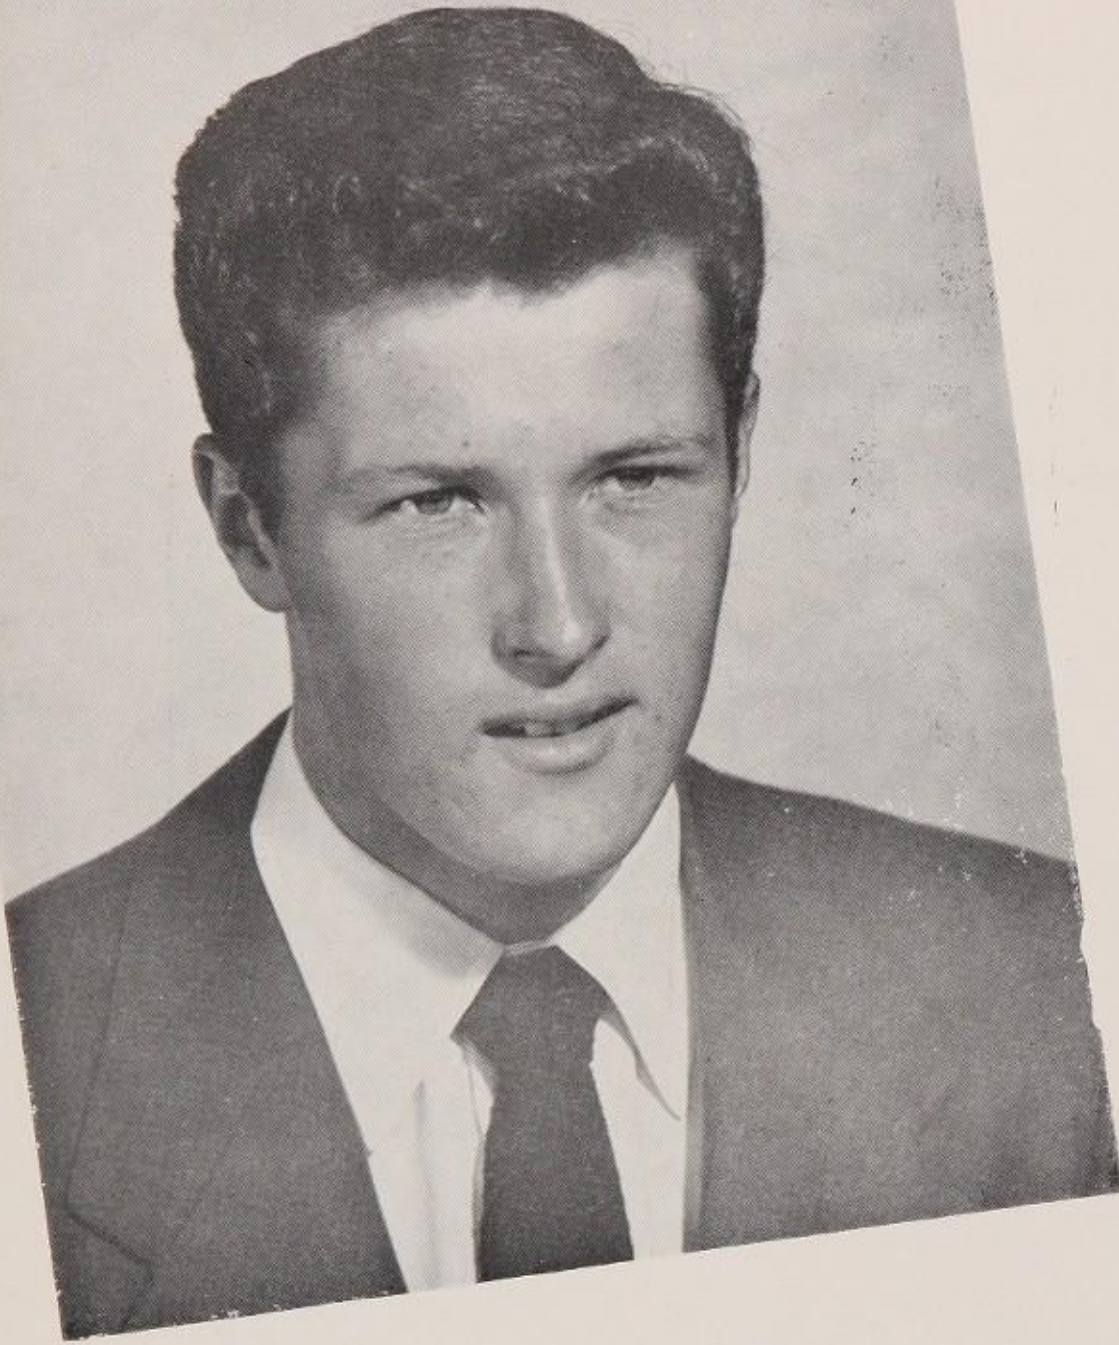

After the Mexican war, the breaking up of the huge cattle ranchos created a real estate boom of such magnitude that El Pueblo de Los Angeles, with its mired streets, mud walls, and adobe houses emerged a metropolis. Civic-minded Gringos became active in their newly acquired land and worked hard to achieve self-government to make the American dream of democracy a reality.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Through the harmonious relations of faculty and administration, student body, student council, and Board of Commissioners, this year has been a most successful one in student government. With Gordon Treharne and Jim Kenney as presidents and Mrs. Goodwin as sponsor, both fall and spring Boards of Commissioners did an outstanding job this year leading the student body through many successful activities, including the activity card drives, which were supported in a fine manner; the student court, newly formed this semester; and the fine school dances, widely acclaimed by the many who attended. Unihi Day, the traditional get together, was even better managed and more fun than usual, thanks to the cooperation of the entire school.

The Board appropriated $1,200 for some much needed new equipment for the auditorium, and added a luxury to our campus in the form of an outdoor bulletin board to provide a Warrior Guide for the bungalow area. The various drives, such as P. T. A., Community Chest and Red Cross were all generously contributed to in the usual Uni spirit. All told, this year comprised a tremendously active and successful year in student government.

GIRLS' LEAGUE

No campus organization is involved in so many different projects and has so many girls actively working in it as has the Girls' League. Under the efficient leadership of presidents Shirley Fleming in the fall term and Julie Dean in the spring, the Boards surged with activity.

The Suitable Dress Board presented the latest fashions at their fashion show; the Friendship Board promoted the highly successful "Howdy Day;" the Senior Service Boards assisted in the Attendance Office at noon; the Board of Hearing continued to help those girls who needed help in solving their problems; and the Display Board, as usual, promoted interest in contests and events through their clever window and bulletin boards displays. A newly organized member of the group, the Design and Publicity Board, is responsible for the banners and posters that have attracted so much attention in the main hall.

Service, culture and leadership . . . these are the bywords of the Mawandas, the twelfth grade girls' honor organization. Under the able direction of their new sponsor, Miss Mary Albers, and the two presidents, Joanne Tanner and Evelyn Toy, they have had a busy year.

The Mawandas are responsible for ushering at all student body assemblies; they also sponsored their second lollipop drive to raise money for school needs, and these fun-loving girls particularly enjoyed this year's traditional progressive dinner given in honor of the initiates. They are recognized by their sky-blue blouses, something new on the campus.

TENTH GRADE COUNCIL

Representatives of tenth grade English classes form a liaison group between tenth graders and older students to orientate the new ones and help them become familiar with old traditions and to assist in forming new policies. Meeting with the Leadership class to discuss school problems, they then return to their classes for discussion and to obtain suggestions for the betterment of the school.

However, this does not tell the true story of this year's team. The loss of Escobar with a broken leg before the first game, and the mid-season loss of Harmon and Coville, combined with a lack of depth and manpower were too much for the Warrior squad to overcome.

The Western League games started with the favored Fairfax Colonials playing on the reservation. A 7-7 tie was apparently broken when Bob Carrillo ran 70 yards for a touchdown, only to have the run and score nullified by a clipping penalty. The Warrior squad was gradually worn down, and Fairfax scored twice in the 4th quarter to win 21-7.

The scene changed to Los Angeles High, where the Braves met the Romans in a Western League clash. The Romans' high-powered running attack was too much for Uni, and L. A. eventually won by a score of 28-6. Playing brilliantly for the Warriors were Bill Sheffield, defensive back; Jim Mora, defensive end; Bob Carrillo, offensive end; and Jack Webb, who substituted in quarterbacking duties.

In a give-and-take touchdown affair at Uni, Dorsey's Dons outscored the Warriors to take a 28-19 thriller, the highlight of the game coming when Unihi's tank fullback, Glenn Harmon, raced some 70 yards to a touchdown. The fine defensive play of All-Western League Don Cunningham, and Tanaka on the line, showed the crowd that Uni was in there all the way. Morimoto and George Share played their usual sparkling game for the Braves.

The first and only win of the League season came at the expense of the Hamilton Yankees, who were defeated 25-13. Don Forsythe, voted the most improved player for Uni this year, proved himself by playing a rock and sock ballgame. Jim Noe played well in a victory over the strongest Yankee team in several seasons.

The final game of the season was played at Uni when underdog Venice pulled an upset and defeated a bewildered bunch of Braves to the tune of 24-7. It being the last game of the season, Coach Tom Wilcox gave many of his subs a chance to play. Jim Noe again sparked the Warriors as he tallied their only touchdown.

Additional credits go to Roger Fisher, Brad Gosche, Bruce Loder, Isamu Morimoto, Bobby Sambrano, Art Phillips, Hap Thystrup, Bob Sandie, Ed Castro, James Hamilton, Bob Duke, Armand DeWeese, Bob Ginter, Arnie Sherman, and Joel Mattson for playing terrifically throughout the season.

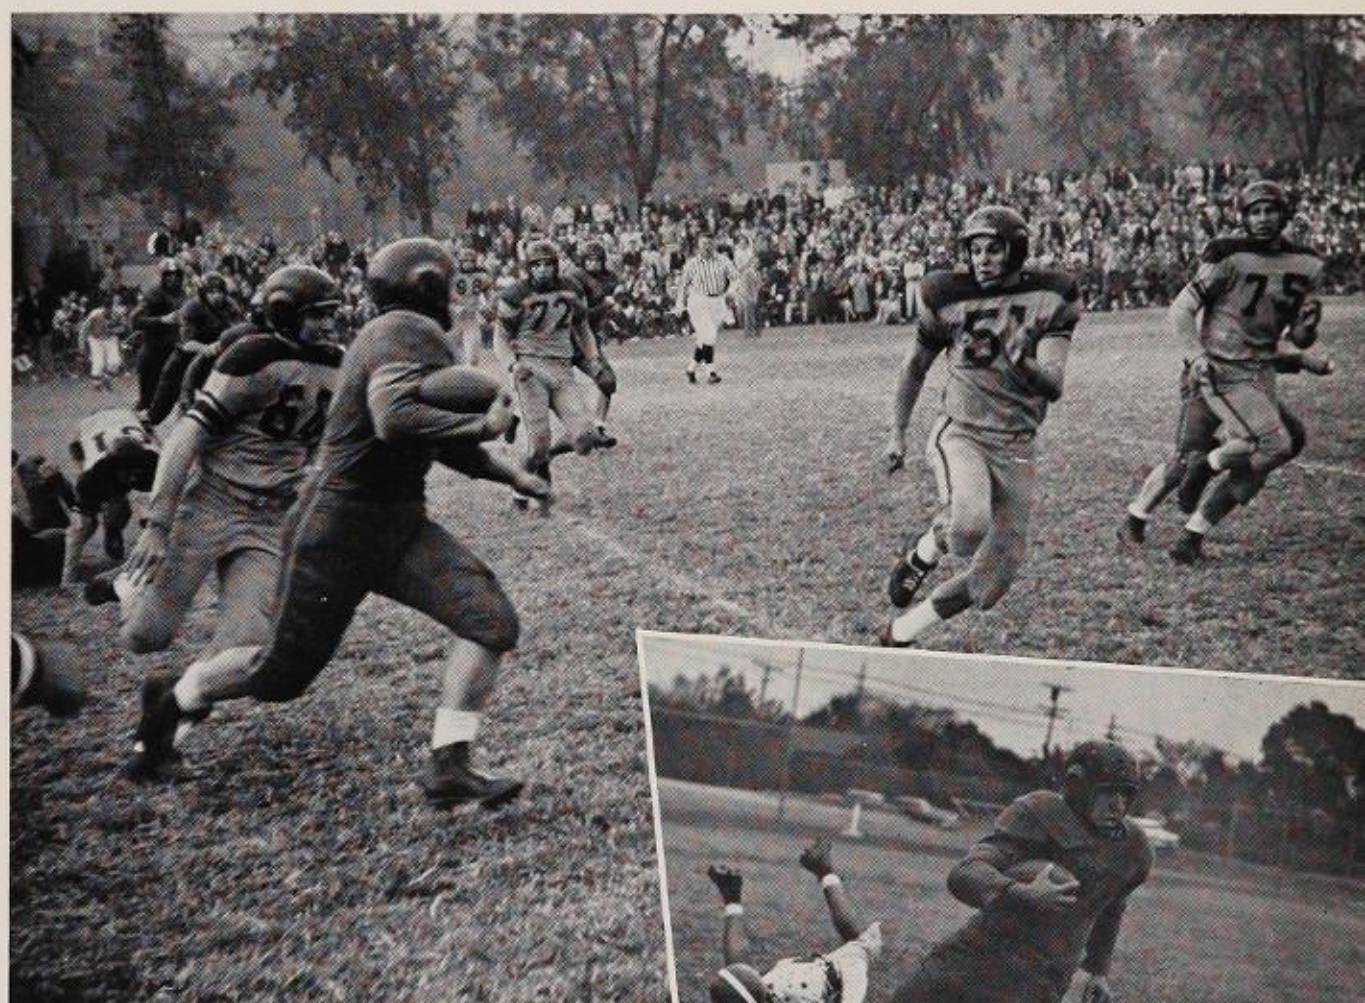

This year's team was characterized by a strong offense, as Uni was never held scoreless; but lack of defensive strength, along with injuries to key players such as Escobar, Harmon, Carrillo, and Cunningham, caused the Warriors to lose several close games.

Although generally rated as a mediocre team, Uni's Varsity five made it clear from the start they were a crew to be reckoned with. The highlight of a successful practice season came when the Warriors captured fourth place in the pre-season city tournament. Junior Mike Simmons' sparking play netted him a berth on the all-tournament team.

In Western league play Coach Jerry Marvin's battling Braves proceeded to win four out of five first round games, the lone loss coming at the hands of L. A. in the final 30 seconds, 45-44. Bob Cox and Simmons led the Marvinmen in the first round, averaging 19 and 13 points. Cox reached his peak in the Venice game when he shattered the school scoring record by hitting for 31 points. Later in the year Simmons scored 34 points to better the record once again.

At the start of the second round, Uni was still in the thick of the battle for the league crown, but the loss of Cox and reliable first string guard Jim Sawyer via graduation was too great. John Anderson and Glenn Small filled in the vacated center spot admirably but couldn't provide Cox's great scoring punch. Del Quackenbush moved into Sawyer's guard position to team up with veteran Dan Porter in an attempt to cut down the high flying L. A. Romans, but an upset loss to Fairfax, 62-60, shattered any dreams Uni had of the league championship.

Donald Pino also cracked the starring five and showed great potentialities. Phil Drescher, Bill Aho and Jim Wooden took over at the guard spots and made excellent showings.

Although losing to L. A. again, the Warriors finished in 2nd place in the western league with a respectable 7-3 record. For their fine play Mike Simmons and Bob Cox were honored on the all-league team.

The Racquet Squad

The net team, which in the past has been comparable to those produced by any other school, battled to a third-place tie in this season's highly competitive Western League.

The Braves were sparked by an experienced aggregation which included Bruce Barker, a member of last year's All-City doubles duo with Phil Mauldin, All-City singles player Stan Siegel, and highly capable Bill Hallen. Rounding out the powerful, but at times sporadic team were transfers Hank Otis and Charlie Fields, returning lettermen Steve Bernhardt, Eric Perram, Fred Nuesca, and Sandy Bressler, and two newcomers, Dave Freeman and John Klempner.

Under the tutoring of Coach Jim Fugle, the squad improved from match to match, ending the season by playing the brand of tennis that has kept Uni at the top in the past. Had the reservation men come into their own earlier, they might have captured the league crown and possibly the city title.

R. O. T. C.

The R.O.T.C. has been unusually active this year, having participated in many events throughout the year. To start the semester, the Color Guard, along with the Drill Team, took part in the half-time maneuvers at the Uni-Dorsey football clash.

Another valuable experience for the Unit was the trip to Fort McArthur, where the cadets spent a week-end of hard work and fun. Upon arrival at the Fort, they were issued fatigues and bedding and were assigned to barracks, where they learned to make a bed army style so that a quarter could bounce on it. They were also instructed in compass and assault problems and rifle drills.

The biggest event of the year was the annual Blue Devil Competition, in which both the Unit and the band won second place in the League. The final competition of the year, the V.F.W. Awards, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, consisted of three perpetual cups and nine medals. The Scholarship Award was won by Harper Whitehouse; the Best Squad Award, by Jim Gaal; the Leadership Award, by Gary Wilcuts.

The Commandant's Award, sponsored by Capt. Rothmund, went to Bill Ogdon as the most promising cadet of the year. Capt. Rothmund said that the esprit de corps of the Unit this year, unparalleled in his experience in R.O.T.C. work, could be attributed largely to the leadership of the cadet battalion commanders, Col. Dan Garcia and Lt. Col. David Hobbs, fall semester; and Col. Gary Willcuts and Lt. Col. Robert Csillag in the spring semester.

Horsehiders in Action

The Warrior baseball team, under the tutoring of Coach Bill Spaeter, played heads-up ball throughout the 1953 campaign and thus experienced a fairly successful season. Although they did not win the League title, our horsehiders accounted well for themselves and justly deserve the thanks and appreciation of the entire student body.

Leading the Warrior ball club were outfielder Skip Close and pitcher Lee Blodgett. It was Skip's hitting and Lee's pitching that led the Warriors to a successful season. Adding strength to the team and playing fine ball throughout the entire season were infielders Bob Welch, Mickie Morrison, Bob Greer, and Jim Rhinehart; outfielders Phil Stein and Jack Deutch; pitcher Bob Wade; and catcher John Hargrove.

Track and Field

Unih's 1953 track and field forces, under the expert guidance of Coach Jim Pursell, experienced a highly successful season as they turned back Western League opponents, with the exception of Los Angeles and Dorsey.

Led by Bill Graham and Joel Mattsson in the mile, Ray Houghton in the 880, Pete Nelson in the pole vault, and Sonny Minichiello in the hurdles, the Warrior tracksters won three of their five league meets, nabbing third place in league standings. The Warriors got off to a fast start as they trounced Fairfax 75-29 in the league opener, but didn't do so well in their next two league meets. They were defeated by Los Angeles, 69-35, and lost to Dorsey by a 79-25 score. The Uni spikesters finished the season off on a happy note as they defeated both Venice and Hamilton.

Throughout the season, a few of the Uni trackmen received city-wide recognition because of outstanding marks. At the time this article was written, Bill Graham was possessor of the city's top mile mark of 4:37.9. Pete Nelson was one of the city's top pole vaulters with a mark of 12' 3", and Ray Houghton was one of the city's top 880 men with a best clocking of 2:03.3.

A word of credit should go to those other trackmen who performed outstandingly throughout the season. They are Armand DeWeese, Dick Swallow, Yoshio Setoguchi, Donny Thomson, Phil Drescher, Duane Ament, Robbie Wollin, Bobby Duke, Fritz Kiessig, and Gordon Watson.

With the Western League and city meets yet to go when the Chieftain went to press, the fate of the Warrior track team was resting in the laps of the gods.

Girls in the World of Sports

For Uni's athletic and fun-loving girls, the G.A.A. had its usual well organized and attractive athletic program this year. Sponsored by Miss Marie McCafferty, badminton, hockey, basketball, and this year for the first time, tennis—both beginning and advanced—were offered to the girls, who were able to participate in the sport of their choice every day after school.

The G.A.A. Cabinet, with Diane Bergoff as president, presided at the G.A.A. banquet, where all the girls who had participated in after-school activities received their letters, thereby becoming members of the Letter-girls' Club.

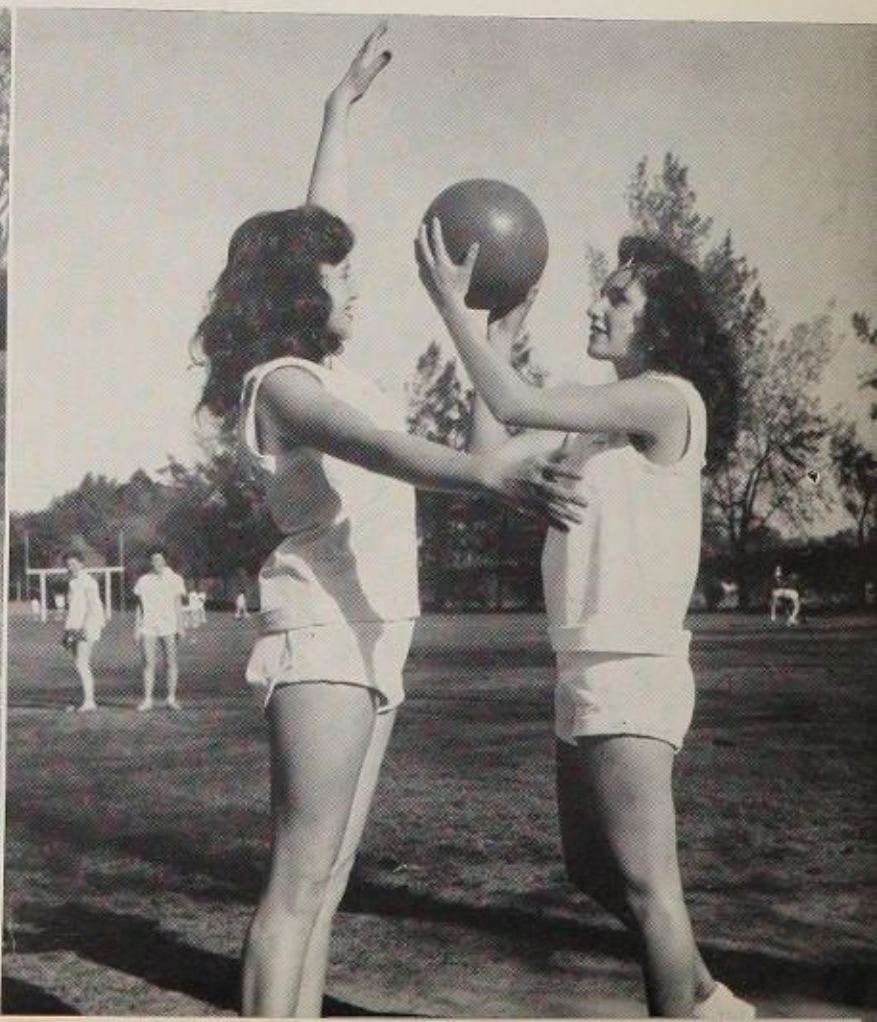

Karen Pettker, Ingrid Nelson and Julie Pressman, spring cheer leaders; and Judy Flint, Ginny Jackson, and Carla Sampson, fall cheer leaders, added to the lively spirit of the play days.
